Program

Come find out what the latest research is telling us about the benefits of learning a second language. Mary O' Brien will present a summary of the research findings from a variety of areas demonstrating how learning a second language can have a positive impact on a range of other skills and how every child can benefit from language learning. The session will include a presentation of the Literature Review and an interactive workshop followed by Q & A.

Please download the Literature Review and Executive Summary listed on the right of the screen and bring a print copy with you to the workshop.

Presenters

Mary O'Brien

Mary O'Brien is a professor of German at the University of Calgary. Her research focuses primarily on second language learning, and one of her main goals is to determine how the results of research can improve classroom language learning.
